Faithful and prudent stewards” in the parish

Every so often there are people who want to make a spectacular gift to the Church — something big, something that can be seen and identified; usually it’s a gift in memory of a deceased loved one. No one ever says, “just apply this to the budget.” That’s understandable. There’s nothing flashy about paying the light bill or getting the carpet clean. But there are folks in every parish who are willing to do just that: the unspectacular, the unnoticed things that make a big difference in the lives of the parish and the people it serves. For example, there’s the woman who is very well off who writes a sizeable cheque to the parish every week to be used to buy gift cards at the local supermarket for poor and struggling families. And then there’s the college professor who volunteers her time every year to teach the fourth-grade religious education class. She’d be a great addition to the adult education and RCIA programs, but she finds that teaching the kids are a great leveller in her life. She says her rambunctious group makes her a better teacher — and a better Christian. Then, there’s the usher who welcomes parishioners to the first Mass on Sunday mornings and handles the details of hospitality. After Mass he goes through the Church picking up bulletins from the benches, straightening out the hymnals, and making sure the rest rooms are clean for the next Mass. He’s one of the city’s most successful and respected attorneys. He’s always generous in giving legal help to the parish — but he shies away from taking a prominent leadership position. No, he says, this is where the need is, and he’s happy to be able to help fill it.

— We are all called to be “faithful and prudent servants” of the abilities and resources that the “Master” has entrusted to us and will hold us accountable for — not for the breadth and depth of those gifts.

Prayer for Vocations

*God our Father,
send workers into your harvest.
May the Spirit we received in baptism
Touch the hearts of many
To offer themselves in priesthood, religious life

The wisdom and courage
