

St. Colman's Parish

28th Sunday in Ordinary Time

10th/11th October 2026

In this Sunday's Gospel, Jesus tells the parable of the wedding feast. A king prepares a great banquet for his son, but many of those invited refuse to come. Some are too busy with their own affairs, while others reject the invitation altogether. The king then sends his servants out to invite everyone they can find, and soon the banquet hall is filled with guests.

At first glance, this may seem like a story about a wedding celebration, but it is really a story about God's invitation to each of us. God continually calls us into a closer relationship with Him and invites us to share in His love, mercy, and joy. The challenge for us is whether we are willing to respond.

The guests in the Gospel were not necessarily bad people. They were simply distracted. Their work, businesses, and daily concerns took priority over the king's invitation. We can often find ourselves in a similar situation. Modern life is busy and demanding. Between work, family commitments, social activities, and the endless distractions of technology, it can be difficult to find time for prayer, reflection, and participation in the life of the Church. Yet the Gospel reminds us that our relationship with God should never be an afterthought.

The good news is that God's invitation remains open. When others refused to come to the banquet, the king welcomed everyone, rich and poor alike. This reminds us that God's love reaches out to all people. No one is excluded from His mercy. No matter our past mistakes, weaknesses, or failures, we are always welcome in God's presence. His invitation is not earned; it is freely given.

This Gospel also challenges us as a parish community. We are called to be people of welcome, kindness, and inclusion. Just as the king opened his doors to all, we too should make every effort to welcome newcomers, support those who are struggling, and reach out to those who may feel isolated or forgotten. A parish is at its strongest when people feel valued, connected, and at home.

As we gather around the Lord's table this weekend, let us reflect on the many ways

God invites us each day through prayer, the sacraments, our families, and our neighbours. May we not be too busy to hear His call. Instead, may we respond with grateful hearts, accepting His invitation and sharing His love with those we meet in the week ahead.
